The Learning Experience[®] includes a creative Spanish curriculum as part of our preschool program. According to researchers, the benefits of learning multiple languages at an early age improves overall school performance and increased problem solving skills. Teaching additional languages to children at an early age help improve their cognitive abilities and enhance their English comprehension as well.

Young children that learn multiple languages may often score higher on standardized tests like the S.A.T. This is because these tests measure a student's knowledge of root words. Learning a Latin-based language, like Spanish, gives children a solid foundation for comprehending word origins. This knowledge is essential to achieve high scores on tests like the S.A.T. Now is the time to develop these skills!

Our Spanish program, L.E.A.P. INTO SPANISH is highly interactive and fun. It is taught in a relaxed and resourceful manner. Children learn phrases, colors, animals, and the weather throughout the year. They also learn body parts such as mouth, eyes, hands and ears through music, games and illustrations. They sing familiar tunes and can often point to objects and name them in Spanish!

Parents are included in the learning process as well. A “Home Connections” page is distributed at the beginning of each month so that parents can communicate in Spanish with their children at home. As children learn about different Spanish-speaking countries and territories, they will fill the pages of their ‘pasaporte.’ Children take them home at the end of the year to show their parents all the fun, new places they’ve learned about. This makes the learning process exciting and engaging for children and parents alike.
